SNOW AND FREEZING TEMPERATURE

Bit of Real Winter Weather Sets in For Holiday Season Rains Badly Needed.

A bit of real winter has dropped down upon Cloverport within the last few days and set in for the holiday season. The first drop in the temperature was Christmas eve when a bitter cold wind prevailed. Christmas day dawned partly fair and cloudy and by mid-night there were snow flakes in the air. Sunday morning revealed a two-inch snow over the

EXTRA SESSION CITY COUNCIL

Report of Equalization Board Deferred; Jones Granted Pool Room Licenses.

At the called meeting of the City Council to accept the assessment list of the city of Cloverport, and the report of the Equalization Board, as the report was not made out clearly, it was passed over to the regular meeting.

William Jones was granted license to operate seven pool tables. The reduction of the license on picture show was referred back to ordinance committee. Several made complaints that their assessments had been raised too much, but the Council ruled the right to change the assessments made by the Equalization Board.

ground. This was the first snow of any consequence this winter and a delight to the youngsters.

Sunday was one of the most disagreeable days of the winter. The rainfall on top of the snow made the streets and sidewalks perfect ponds in many places so that they were almost impassable. The rain was followed by freezing temperature Monday leaving ice covered streets.

Rains are badly needed in this section because of many families who depend upon their water supply coming from cisterns and the slight rainfall has left many persons without water.

CAPT. REEVES RE-ENLISTS; SENT TO TEXAS

Son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Beard Becomes Regular Army Officer.

The subjoined clipping is taken from the Greenwood, Miss. paper and it is of interest to the people in Breckinridge county from the fact that Capt. Reeves is a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Percy M. Beard, of Hardinsburg, a short time ago having married their eldest daughter, Miss Mary Franklin Beard.

Captain and Mrs. Raymond Reeves left last week for Little Rock, Ark. where Captain Reeves was ordered to report after enlisting in the regular army for life. Captain Reeves was ordered to San Antonio, Tex., after reporting at Little Rock and will reach that place today. He is attached to the Fifteenth Field Artillery. Captain Reeves served as a captain in the world war and was attached to the 140th Field Artillery. He recently resigned his position with the Wade Hardware Co., and re-enlisted in the army. Captain and Mrs. Reeves have many friends in Greenwood, who will wish them much success.

CELEBRATE HIGH MASS AT MIDNIGHT

St. Mary's Of The Woods Church Scene Of Happy Christmas Festivities.

McQuady, Dec. 28. (Special)—The Christmas festivities at St. Mary's of the Woods, were very impressive and will long be remembered by those present. The church which was filled beyond normal seating capacity, was beautifully decorated with holly, cedar and artificial snow, and lighted by hundreds of candles.

The significance of the event was the midnight celebration of High Mass followed immediately by benediction. This being the first time in the history of St. Mary's parish that midnight services have been celebrated. Special music, which had been carefully selected for the occasion, was furnished by a choir of twenty-eight mixed voices, accompanied by an orchestra of six pieces. Mrs. Paul O'Connor presided at the organ.

The musical programme was as follows:

Adeste Fideles - - - - - Novello
Kyrie - - - - - Werner
Gloria - - - - - Werner
Credo - - - - - Werner

Offertory, Star of The East
Tenor, Baritone, Bass trio and Chorus.

Sanctus - - - - - Werner
Benedictus - - - - - Werner

Alto and Soprano Duet
O Solutoris - - - - - J. Wiegand

Holy Night
Bass Solo and Chorus

Tantum Ergo - Sr. of the Holy Cross
Baritone Solo and Chorus

Postlude
Holy God We Praise Thy Name
Star of the East

The choir is to be ardently congratulated for its splendid rendition of the musical program. The work of the choir was extraordinary and in so much as it stood out so prominently, is worthy of attention from the point of view that such achievements can be accomplished only by unceasing efforts on their part, together with the hearty cooperation of the pastor, who directed the rehearsals.

During the services Father Kneue having wished his parishioners the blessings and greetings of the season preached a most eloquent sermon in which he related the mysteries involving the coming of the Christ Child in the world.

CAPT. ROWLAND'S WIDOW SUCCUMBS

Mrs. Kate Babbage Rowland Dies Shortly After Paralytic Stroke; Buried Friday.

Following a paralytic stroke, Mrs. Katherine Babbage Rowland, widow of Capt. J. H. Rowland, succumbed at her home in the West End on Wednesday evening at six o'clock. Mrs. Rowland was stricken on the evening before about 10 o'clock. Her left side was paralyzed, and she was unconscious from the time she was stricken until the end. Previous to this, Mrs. Rowland had suffered a slight stroke of paralysis, but to all appearances she seemed in good health and her death was a complete shock to her family and friends.

The funeral service was held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Methodist church conducted by Rev. J. R. Randolph, pastor assisted by Rev. E. C. Nall, pastor of the Baptist church.

The four brothers of Mrs. Rowland were the active pall-bearers with two other members of the family. They were: Jno. D. Courtney, Virgil G. and Charles P. Babbage, Alfred Taylor, Jr., and Courtney Babbage, Jr.

Her remains were laid beside those of Capt. Rowland in the Cloverport cemetery. Mrs. Rowland was the third daughter of Miria A. and John C. Babbage. She was born in Cloverport, April 8, 1857, and was married to Capt. Rowland, Feb. 26, 1885. She united with the Methodist church when a young girl and was a loyal member throughout her life. Mrs. Rowland spent the greatest part of her life in this city where she was known and loved for her kindness of heart and words and the abounding cheerfulness which dominated in her life.

Surviving are the four brothers, Jno. Davis Babbage, editor and publisher of The Breckinridge News and Attorney Virgil G. Babbage, of Cloverport; Courtney Babbage and Charles P. Babbage, of Louisville. Two sisters, Mrs. Eliza Taylor, of Hardinsburg, and Mrs. H. V. Duncan, of Cloverport.

"WHERE COURTESY REIGNS"

FORCED TO GIVE UP RAILROADING

George Sharpe Says He Was In Bad Shape Before Taking Tanlac—Feels Fine Now.

"My health got so bad I had to give up railroading, but since taking Tanlac I could fire an engine as good as any man on the C. and O.," said George P. Sharpe, 1628 Tremont St., Fairmont District, Cincinnati, Ohio, a valued employee of the Lukensheim Co. Mr. Sharpe was formerly with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad for seven years.

"About four years ago I had an operation which finally resulted in a general breakdown. I got—where I couldn't eat anything without bloating up so bad I could hardly breathe and the constant jolting of the engine almost put me out of commission. My nerves gave way, I could hardly stand the noise of the train, and sleep was next to impossible for me. I fell off a great deal in weight, and had so many dizzy spells I could hardly stay on the job. Although I tried medicine after medicine, nothing did me any good, so about six months ago I had to change to lighter work.

"But I don't believe I could have held out at this long if I hadn't got better. But Tanlac helped me right from the start, and it wasn't long before I had my stomach working fine, just like the old engine I used to fire. I eat anything I want now and nothing gives me the least trouble, and my nerves are in such good condition I sleep like a log every night and get up mornings feeling fine. In fact, I am again in perfect health, just as strong and well as I ever was, and I want to say Tanlac is what fixed me up. I wouldn't think of being without it."

Tanlac is sold in Cloverport by Wedding's Drug Store, in Kirk by Mattingly Bros., in Addison by L. D. Addison, in Ammons by Wm. H. Dutschke, and in Stephensport by R. A. Shellman.—Advertisement.

MOVING PLYMOUTH ROCK.

Plymouth Rock is to be moved again, for the fourth time in its history. The contract has been let for taking it back to its original position on the great granite base on the shore level, which is seven feet below the present site.

It was in 1774 that the Rock was first moved from its original site. On that occasion a twenty yoke team of oxen was hitched to the stone and it was hauled up to the Town Square of Plymouth to serve as a base for a flag pole. In 1823 occurred the second moving day, this time the stone being taken to Pilgrim Hall, where it remained until about forty years ago, when it had its third translation to the site known to the present generation. During this last moving the Rock was split into three pieces. These have been cemented together, a condition that will necessitate great care in its final journey back to the "point or place of beginning."

This one of the tasks undertaken by the Pilgrim Tercentenary Commission, which also proposes to remove from the canopy of the Rock the supposed bones of some of the Pilgrims who died in the first year after the landing at Plymouth and to bury them on Coles Hill, the original burial ground where the bones of other Pilgrims who died in that first year also lie. The Tercentenary Commission has established Coles Hill as the permanent Pilgrim burial ground, thus disposing of the proposal to remove elsewhere the bones buried there. With the contemplated transformation of the Plymouth waterfront into a park as a permanent Pilgrim memorial there should be an appropriate setting for Plymouth Rock. It is to be hoped that with its return to its original site it will carry with it all the traditions of that distinctive and remarkable New England spirit which has spread into every part of our land and into our insular possessions; to their spiritual and material benefit, a spirit which so long as it endures will make for the betterment of our country and of mankind.—N. Y. Herald.

THE BUCKWHEAT CAKES.

I fell in love with Millicent And almost told her so. I was entranced with Gladys, too. And called myself her beau. For Mahel, Maud and Madge my heart Endured distressful aches. Until I met Janet and her Ambrosial buckwheat cakes.

All smoking hot and feather light And delicately browned. Well buttered and with honey drenched She brought the tasty mound. I ate and ate and asked for more; Henceforth for chops and steaks I had no wish, my appetite Demanded buckwheat cakes.

If she had been less young and fair I would have been the same. The hand that flipped the buckwheats was The hand I yearned to claim. I wedded her, alas! alas! How oft we make mistakes, It was her mother, not Janet, Who baked the buckwheat cakes. Minna Irving.

U. S. LIKES AMERICAN CLASS OF POULTRY

American Class of Poultry Are Found Best For General Purport Fowls.

In the American class of poultry are found the Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Java, Dominique, Rhode Island Red, and Buckeye.

The fowls of these breeds are commonly called general-purpose fowls, because they are not only good egg producers but their carcasses are also well suited for the table. They are therefore the best breeds for the general farm flocks of chickens, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. They are in good favor, too, with the poultry packers on account of their table qualities. All the American breeds lay brown-shelled eggs. They all have yellow skins, and shanks free from feathers, which are desirable qualities for table fowls in this country. In size they are intermediate between the smaller egg breeds, such as the Leghorns, and the larger meat breeds, such as the Brahmans. In temperament they are also intermediate, being less active than the egg breeds, but more so than the meat breeds. They are fairly good foragers. The American-class birds mature earlier than the meat breeds, but not so quickly as the egg breeds. They are sitters and make good mothers.

CLOSE OF SEASON GOOD TIME TO MAKE FARM INVENTORY

With another season of farm work fast drawing to a close, the United States Department of Agriculture is urging that an annual property list or inventory be made by every farmer.

It is the only means, department specialists say, whereby farmers may know accurately their net financial worth, what progress they are making from year to year, and how their investment in farm property is being distributed. Property lists, or inventories, made in accordance with a plan outlined in the Office of Farm Management, United States Department of Agriculture, are not difficult to make and are of great value to any farmer who is striving to better his condition, overcome obstacles to success, and place his business affairs on a secure foundation. To drift along year after year, not knowing whether toward success or failure, is not the practice of business men. Specialists of the department are prepared to give complete directions for making a farm inventory that will put the farm on a business basis.

EDGAR BASHAM MARRIED

Stephensport, Dec. 29 (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Basham have received the announcement of the marriage of their son, Edgar Basham to Miss Sarah J. Meggison, of Alexander, Ill.

ANNOUNCEMENT

On and after January 1, 1921 I am going to adopt a cash system for selling merchandise. I will sell for cash only. I am doing this for two reasons. One is it will place me in position to sell you goods from 10 to 15 per cent less than I can sell them now. The capital it takes to carry long standing accounts compels a merchant to sell goods for a larger per cent of profit. Besides it enables the man that pays cash to buy his goods a great deal cheaper and the man that buys on credit can borrow money and save from 6 to 10 per cent by paying cash. And another thing it eliminates all errors that are liable to happen in book keeping.

Second, it will do away with the work and expense of keeping books which adds largely to the overhead cost of doing business. As I am going to adopt the cash system would ask that everyone who is indebted to please make their arrangements to settle all accounts by the 1st of the New Year 1921.

I am sure it will mean much in dollars and cents to both parties concerned.

I want to thank my many friends and customers for past favors and solicit your valuable patronage in the future.

E. A. HARDESTY, Stephensport, Ky.

The following goes with the farm at the price: Two good five year old mares in foal, 45 head of sheep, one cow and calf, 7 head of hogs, 10 acres of corn, 2 acres of tobacco, several tons of hay, and all farming tools, including a good wagon and enough wood to run all winter. IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our beloved sister, Mrs. Katherine Babbae Rowland, who passed on to her great reward one week ago today. To her family she was like a ray of sunshine in our homes. She held steadfastly to those whom she loved and who were nearest and dearest to her. Her life was simple and unpretentious lived, yet there was nobleness hid within that endeared her to those who knew her. She possessed an infinite love of family, of friends and in giving joy and happiness to others.

We shall cherish her memory and the intimate associations with her in the sentiment of the poet when he said:

"Long, long be our hearts with such memories filled,
Like a vase in which roses have long been distilled;
You may shatter, you may break the vase if you will,
But the scent of the roses will hang around it still."

WAS LONELINESS THE CAUSE OF EMPTY FARM HOUSES?

In his annual report for the Department of the Interior Secretary Payne bewails the decrease in the farm population. He cites as an example Ohio, where the number of vacant farm houses increased, in the year ended June 30, 1920, from 18,000 to 29,000, and where the number of men and boys on farms decreased 30 per cent. The Secretary offers only one reason for the swing from rural to urban life:

"The difficulty is that people do not like to live alone, but prefer to live in towns and villages and to enjoy society and the conveniences and comforts of modern life which are beyond the reach of a scattered population living on large farms."

If that excuse had been given twenty or thirty years ago it would have had more behind it than it can have today. In the last decade most of the conveniences and comforts of modern life have been put at the farmers' disposal.

Every well to do farmer, wherever he may be, can have modern water supply, central heating, and his own easily operated electric lighting plant. The motor car takes him and his wife quickly to markets, shops and the theatres and carries his children to a good school. The talking machine and the mechanical piano bring plenty of music into his home.

Never has farm life been less lonely than it has been in the ten years which have seen the march from the plough to the city shop. And the real reason for the movement was not loneliness. It was the discovery by the farmer's son that he could get more money for less work in the city. The war made this doubly possible. Now for the first time in five years it looks as if the desertion of the farms would slow down.—The New York Herald.

It was John Wanamaker, the widely known merchant, who gave this plan for the New Year's resolution:

Resolve to cultivate this year an honest ambition to excel in some distinct way by superior intelligence or industry in the discharge of the duties which fall within your sphere.

In whatever position a man is placed, if he does things above what is ordinarily performed by those of his rank he distinguishes himself for special consideration.

There is a superiority obtainable for every heroic man or woman who will exert him or herself to do so, and it is highly honorable and worth while to pay the price for it by application, self-control and earnest endeavor. Take the heroic road.

A million pounds of butter arrived in New York last week exported by the Cooperative Creameries of Denmark, and will be marketed in this country at fifty-five cents a pound. Can it be real butter?

Our New Year's greeting is to wish for each of our readers three hundred and sixty-five days filled with joy, peace and prosperity.

JUST WOULDN'T BE COMFORTED

The church visitor found Mrs. Williamsburg, the second lady on the list, moping in tears.

"For goodness sake," she exclaimed "what ails you now?"

"O, I'm so lonely," wailed the afflicted one. "I am cooped up all day. I see nobody—I go nowhere. O dear! O dear!"

"Well, then, why don't you get out, join some women's clubs, stir around and be somebody?"

"Because I think too much of my home," sniffed the sorrowful sufferer.—Harper's Magazine.

REJECTED, BUT NEEDED AID

"Very well, then," sighed the stout suitor as he knelt before his adored one, "if you won't, you won't, but will you be kind enough to give me your hand?"

"Why, I have just positively and definitely refused you!" the fair maid exclaimed in astonishment.

"O, I understand that. I'm not again asking for your hand in marriage, but to help me to my feet."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

MR. WILSON'S GOOD MESSAGE.

President Wilson's message to Congress is worthy of careful reading by all Americans. It is not long; it is, in view of the recent national vote, in excellent taste and it is filled with simple, practical common sense. In performing the duty laid upon him by the Constitution to present to Congress an annual report on the state of the nation it was not unnatural for him, under all the circumstances of the past, to begin it as if he were discussing the state of the universe. Almost immediately, however, with one of his felicitous literary turns about helping those abroad by ourselves setting a good example at home, he centered upon our domestic affairs and thereafter stuck for the most part to the text.

"It is our American business and it is good international politics to set our own house in order and keep it in order, as he urges, so that while we thus grow better and stronger, the rest of the world may profit by emulation of our welfare and happiness. The preservation of American power, the salvation of American institutions depend upon our making and enforcing laws which, as Mr. Wilson says, 'secure its full right to labor and yet at the same time safeguard the integrity of property and particularly of that property which is devoted to the development of industry and the increase of the necessary wealth of the world.' And the day of redemption for those Powers and people of Europe now struggling against anarchy and chaos can come only out of the practice of those same principles, fundamental everywhere on the face of the earth.

Nobody could more simply and clearly state both the advantage and the necessity of our Government managing its business as carefully, efficiently and successfully as private undertakings are managed than Mr. Wilson states them in his remarks on a budget system and above all a working out of revenue and expenditures under that system so that there shall be neither undue strain upon our income nor unreasonable taxation. It is an imperative need that we should now put our Government on a business basis and Mr. Wilson says that for us thus to 'prove the indestructible recuperative force of a great Government of the people' will be an inspiration and guide for others.

This is a good message to Congress and the American people whom Congress represents. It is a good word to the world, watching this nation as the old Administration passes and the new approaches.—New York Herald.

REALLY POOR MAN.

A man is poor:
If he is without friends.
If he has low-flying ideals.
If he has a guilty conscience.
If he has lost his self-respect.
If his morals are questionable.
If he has lost his grip upon himself.
If he is selfish, uncharitable or cruel.
If he has forfeited his health for wealth.

If his mind and soul have been neglected.
If he has traded away his character for money.

If his wife and family do not love and respect him.
If he has a disagreeable disposition that makes enemies or repels people.
If making money has crowded out the cultivation of his aesthetic faculties.

THE PATH OF DUTY

'Tis not a little winding path,
Rose-bordered, dear, and fair,
Within a garden picturesque,
To wander, free from care.

Nay, you will find the path is straight
And narrow, plain at best;
But peace will your companion be,
In beautiful garments dressed.

Tewksbury, Gertrude Louise Small.

SERVICE THE MEASURE OF SUCCESS.

Roy's Life
It isn't the cut of the clothes that you wear,
Nor the stuff out of which they are made,
Though chosen with taste and fastidious care,
And isn't the prices that you paid:
It isn't the size of your pile in the bank,
Nor the number of acres you own,
It isn't a question of prestige or rank,
Nor of sinew and muscle and bone;
It isn't the servants that come at your call,
It isn't the things that you possess,
Whether many or little—or nothing at all,
It's service that measures success.

It isn't a question of name, or of length
Of an ancestral pedigree,
Nor a question of mental vigor and strength,
Nor a question of social degree;
It isn't a question of city or town,
Nor a question of doctrine or creed,
It isn't a question of fame or renown,
Nor a question of valorous deeds;
But he who makes somebody happy each day,
And who gives heed to distress,
Will find satisfaction the richest of pay,
For it's service that measures success.

Five Minute Chats on Our Presidents

By JAMES MORGAN

(Copyright, 1916, by James Morgan.)

A SECOND-HAND PRESIDENT

1800—Jan. 7, Millard Fillmore, born in Cayuga county, New York.
1829—31—Member of New York assembly.
1833-35, 1837-43 Member of congress.
1848—Elected vice president.
1850—July 9, sworn in as thirtieth president, aged fifty. Sent Commodore Perry to Japan.
1852—Defeated for nomination.
1856—Nominated for president by Know-nothings and Whigs, and defeated.
1874—March 8, died at Buffalo, aged seventy-four.

MILLARD FILLMORE, the second vice president to be promoted by death, was the most commonplace president even in a twenty-year period when the presidency remained at low-water mark. Tall and with magisterial front, but cold and hollow, he looked the part which he played—the dummy of northern trimmers in politics and of southern traffickers in slaves.

A fable of the day hit off the truth. The new president must have a carriage, and "Old Edward" Moran, a White House attendant in many administrations, took him to see a handsome outfit, whose owner was leaving Washington and would sell it at a bargain.

"This is all very well, Edward," Fillmore mused, according to the popular yarn, "but how would it do for the president of the United States to ride around in a second-hand carriage?"

"But, sure," argued "Old Edward," "Your Excellency is only a second-hand president!"

In Fillmore we have another from-tier president. For western New York was an outpost when he was born there of New England parents. After receiving about the same kind of schooling as our other log-cabin presidents, he was bound out to learn the trade of wool carder.

The one enduring act of the Fillmore administration was taken when it sent Commodore Perry to knock at the long-closed gate of Japan, and, with the gift of a toy railroad and a toy telegraph, to tempt the Japanese to come out of their hermit seclusion. The rest is politics.

As American men struggled to rise from the bottom in the more primitive days of the country, their women often failed to keep up with them. By the time half of Fillmore's predecessors gained the presidency, their wives were either dead, worn out or lagging behind.

Mrs. Fillmore, finding herself without strength or ambition to reign with her husband, her place was taken by a daughter. This girl of eighteen, Miss Mary Abigail, was enough of a new woman to have insisted on fitting herself by a course in a normal school to earn an independent living. Being obligated to teach a certain length of time after graduating, she went on teaching school even after her father became vice president. She kept at it until her mother summoned her to preside over the White House, where she promptly induced congress to install a library, the mansion having been until then a bookless desert.

A month after the end of her husband's term Mrs. Fillmore was dead. Next Miss Mary died of cholera, and then, after a tour of Europe, the pathetic loneliness of a retired president was relieved by a marriage with a wealthy widow.

Fillmore had tried to avert this retirement by an unsuccessful effort to be nominated to succeed himself. Four years afterward he attempted to break the retirement and return to the presidency. Although he had both the Know-nothing and Whig nominations, he ran third in the election. He lived on in his Buffalo home until the very year when another Buffalonian, Grover Cleveland, started for the White House by way of the shrievalty of Erie county.

DR. W. A. WALKER BURIED FRIDAY

Remains Brought From North Carolina to Hardinsburg His Former Home.

The funeral of Dr. W. A. Walker, who died in Hendersonville, N. C., Wednesday, Dec. 22, was held in the Northern Methodist church in Hardinsburg on Friday afternoon. Rev. M. L. Dyer, of Louisville, a former pastor of the Southern Methodist church in Hardinsburg, conducted the services.

Dr. Walker went to Hendersonville four years ago to recover his health. He was born and reared in Breckinridge county, and practiced dentistry in Hardinsburg for nearly twenty years. He was married eighteen years ago to Miss Margaret Kincheloe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Kincheloe, who survive with the three daughters, Misses Mary Elizabeth, Virginia Dare and Mildred Cain Walker.

Dr. Walker was a Mason and a member of the Southern Methodist church.

COULD USE TOMATO SEEDS

Department of Agriculture Points Out How They May Be Made a Source of Revenue.

That much valuable material is being wasted annually by throwing away tomato seeds extracted to pulping, soup, catsup and canning plants is indicated by investigations made by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Department investigators have found that more than one thousand tons of seed are thrown away annually in northern tomato-pulping plants, with large enough output of seed to pay for shipping, and that they may be made into edible oil and stock food worth about $86,000 (December, 1919). Cost of collecting and preparing the seed is estimated at about $35,000, including all proper charges, and the cost of the necessary equipment is given at not to exceed $50,000.

In addition the same plant, which would run not more than five months in the year, could be used for the handling of grape seeds and pumpkin seeds, which would distribute the overhead and cut down the cost of manufacture of the tomato-seed products.

Cavalryman's Splendid Ride.

Col. Ezra B. Fuller, the author of a riding "anthology," has himself a notable achievement of endurance and horsemanship to his credit. During the Nez Perce campaign of 1877 Fuller, then second lieutenant of the Seventh cavalry, stationed on the north bank of the Yellowstone river, near Miles City, was ordered by General Miles to take five troopers with him and carry dispatches to General Sherman at Fort Ellis, Mont. Much of the trip had to be made running alongside of the horses, owing to the mountainous character of the country traversed and the almost impassable condition of the trails. The total distance covered was over 350 miles, which was made in four days and nineteen hours, without changing mounts.

NOT WHAT WE SPEND FOR EDUCATION BUT WHAT WE GET FOR IT.

The population of the United States comprising one-sevententh of the human beings on earth, spends annually as much money for education as the other sixteen-sevenths, according to P. P. Claxton, the United States Commissioner of Education.

Mr. Claxton's deductions from this fact were laid before a regional educational conference in Chicago this week. Unfortunately the news report before us does not tell what they were.

As every taxpayer knows, we are spending great sums for education. The public schools and State universities, parochial and private schools, denominational and non-sectarian endowed schools and colleges cost a great deal to maintain. In 1918 the total expenditure for the public schools was $763,678,089, the number of pupils enrolled was 20,853,510, and the average attendance was 15,548,914. In that year the population between 5 and 18 was estimated at 27,686,476. There were 650,709 teachers, 9,180 superintendents, 5,119 supervisors and 12,591 principals.

But notwithstanding this great army of educators and the vast cost, there are a discouraging number of illiterates here. The census for 1910 put the percentage of persons of 10 and more unable to read and write 7.6 for the whole country. This rate was based on 5,516,163 illiterates over 10, of whom 1,378,884 were native whites of native parentage, 155,3 were native whites of foreign or mixed parentage, 1,650,361 were white negroes. The number of illiterate males of voting age was 2,273,603.

These figures show that either we are not spending enough money on education, vast though our annual outlay is for this purpose, or that we are not getting our money's worth. The fact that we pay-out for schools as much as all the other people in the world put together do is a matter of small consequence. The fact of grave importance is that there are adult illiterates in America where there should be none. When we have reached a point at which we can say truthfully that every adult capable of instruction in all the land is able to read and to sign his name we shall be able to take 100 per cent. pride in our educational system.—New York Herald.

NEW STORY ABOUT PILGRIMS

Writers Claim Early Settlers in America Were Kidnaped From the London Virginia Company.

Some historians, notably Azell Ames, who has compiled "The Mayflower and Her Log" from original sources, assert that the skipper of the Mayflower was Capt. Thomas Jones, a rough seadog who had led a more or less piratical career on the high seas. Between Capt. Jones and Sir Ferdinando Gorges and doubtless Weston, they allege that a plot existed whereby the Pilgrims were deliberately stolen from the London Virginia company and planted on territory outside of the Virginia grant. The maneuvering about Cape Cod, according to this interpretation, was simply a part of the plot to discourage the Pilgrims from settling near the Hudson, as evidently they intended when they left Holland.

The exact identity of "Master Jones" is not clear. Historians of the Massachusetts Historical society say that the skipper was one Christopher Jones, a trustworthy man, entirely different from Capt. Thomas Jones, who was known to have a checkered career during his voyages to Virginia and other colonies. The course of American colonial history may have been greatly changed when the Pilgrims encountered the shoals and unfavorable winds off Cape Cod, but this bit of destiny can be easily exaggerated. It is sufficient here to relate that the Pilgrim colony was founded outside the jurisdiction of the London Virginia company.

Girls Traveled Far in Wilderness.

Down the wild and ragged east shoreline of Lake Winnipeg, Manitoba, where not a farm nor a settlement breaks the desolation, two young women of eastern Canada recently rowed 200 miles in an open boat, taking a month for the trip and making their own camp every night. The collection of fossils, in which the region is rich, was the object of the remarkable journey. A lone Indian was the only human being sighted in the entire distance. The daring voyagers were deposited by a steamer at the mouth of the Berens river, about midway of the lake, and from that point were wholly dependent upon their own resources.—Popular Magazine.

HUN RAIDERS NEATLY TRICKED

Quick Wit of Chinese Cook Responsible for the Destruction of the Cruiser Emden.

Some time ago a mercantile marine officer, who during the war was on naval service, related to me the following interesting episode in regard to the capture of the Emden:

The famous German raider landed a company of men on the Cocos Island in the early hours of the morning when most of the men in the wireless station were asleep. The detachment of Germans were under orders to put the wireless apparatus out of action. Near the beach they came across a Chinese—one of the cooks at the station mess. Him they seized hold of and commanded to lead them to the telegraph office. Unfortunately for the emissaries of the fatherland the cook kept his wits about him, and, unknown to his captors, managed to signal to one of his fellow countrymen, who was also a station servant and who happened to be near, that he was to convey the news of the landing with all speed to his masters.

This man slipped away post haste to the operator's quarters, and in the meantime the cook led his guards by a round-about way through the bush to their destination.

Apprised by the Chinese who had come direct as to what was happening, the operators were able to send out a wireless that the Emden was in the offing, so that by the time the Germans had arrived on the scene the Sydney had picked up the message and was making at full speed toward the enemy.

The Germans, not knowing that their presence had already been betrayed arrived at the instrument-room and soon demolished its contents, no doubt feeling they had done a good morning's work. Alas! their calculations were all upset through the presence of mind of a humble Chinese cook. The latter, I believe, was not forgotten by the British authorities, for I have reason to think he now lives a gentleman of ease and leisure in his native town.—Wuchang.

SUNDAY HALF A CENTURY AGO

Spirit and Letter of Commandment Both Thoroughly Observed in Western New York.

My mother was born and reared in a little country village in western New York. On the farm where my grandmother lived it was the custom to begin Sunday on Saturday night at sundown. The "hired man" came in from the chores, grandmother put away all her work in the kitchen, and then the entire family gathered in the "best room" and studied the Sunday-school lesson, or had a reading from the Bible, led by grandfather, and all the family retired not later than 9 o'clock.

In the morning, after doing none but the absolutely necessary chores on the farm, the team that had not been used the day before was hitched up to the big four-seated wagon and the entire family including the "hired" help, went to church. There was preaching service in the forenoon, and then we adjourned to a lunch for ourselves and the team. Then we went in to a Sunday-school service, and after an interval there was another preaching service, after which we hitched up and drove slowly back to the farm.

That was the way Sunday was kept in western New York a little more than 50 years ago. I can remember hearing my mother say that when she was a girl in this same New York state village, she was not allowed to walk except to the cemetery and back, on Sunday, and was not allowed to read any books except the Bible and "Fox's Book of Martyrs."—Christian Herald

X-RAY MACHINE INVENTED FOR FITTING SHOES

Radiography, the science to which the most opaque of substances reveal their innermost secrets, has scored another triumph: this time not in the field of pathology, but in that of the very common every-day service of selecting and correctly fitting proper shoes, according to an illustrated article in the December Popular Mechanics Magazine. An X-ray apparatus has been brought out for use in shoe stores, by means of which the purchaser and the sales-person can see whether or not the bones of the foot are distorted or restricted by the shoe being tried on. The device will not only settle any controversy which may arise as to proper size, it will also show, without leaving chance for argument, whether a shoe is of the correct design and shape.

WEATHER WISE

White Thanksgiving was a memorandum. It said quite briefly, "Winter."

It was a memorandum to go and do a number of errands which usually get put off until the snowflakes and low mercury memorandum jogs our attention.

This seasonal organization of our life is a curious chapter. Most of us are hardly aware of it at all. When the weather gets hot we go and buy certain articles. When it gets cold we go and buy certain other articles. Talk about your deep-sea fishermen being weather-wise! Shrewd tradesmen can keep tabs on the progress of the seasons merely by what customers come in and ask for, and by the numbers in which they ask for it.

The season, with most of us, gets to be a mood—a frame of mind. A certain kind of weather happens along and, presto! we are in the mood of Spring, or Autumn, or Winter, and trot around to buy the things needful for that season. A dealer in straw hats or muslins will tell you that on a hot day an east wind bearing the cool breath of the salt water will well empty his store in 15 minutes. Or a timely snowstorm will turn all minds to the wherewithal for keeping warm, or keeping hot, or keeping the holidays. The mild season we have been having has had much to do with slowing up trade. The snow flurry on Thanksgiving has helped to speed it up. Unseasonable weather throws out of gear our whole commercial machine.

That our reasonable errand should so often await the prods of heat and cold rather than go by long foresight is an ironic comment on how much more we learn through our hides than through our heads. But nature, too is weatherwise. She sees to it that we learn, by one route or the other.—Boston Globe.

The world's standard remedy for kidney, liver, bladder and uric acid troubles. Famous since 1896. Take regularly and keep in good health. In three sizes, all druggists. Guaranteed as represented. Look for the name Gold Medal on every box and accept no imitation.

farmers to town. Another reason to discourage the farmer is the high cost of fertilizer. If the Government would bring a few shiploads of nitrates from South America and some potash from Germany it would bring down the prices of fertilizer and encourage a larger acreage of foodstuff. Fertilizers at present are $50 to $70 a ton, and at this rate the usual number of fifty acres of potatoes, for instance planted by the ordinary farmer would cost around $3,000. Add to this the cost of seed potatoes, labor, machinery, etc., and you can readily understand why the farmer is going out of business.

FLAG ON TOY DOG'S TAIL COSTS MERCHANT $10 FINE.

Boston, Dec. 9.—The display for sale of a toy dog with a miniature American flag attached to its tail brought S. Ishikawa into municipal court today. Mrs. Ralph M. Kistland, president of the Women's Civic League of Malden and a member of the Daughters of the Revolution, complained that it was shown at Ishikawa's novelty shop in Back bay. The merchant admitted the fact, said the toy was one of a lot imported several years ago from Japan and pleaded that there was no intention to show disrespect for the stars and stripes. He was fined $10 with an admonition to take from his stock any other offending articles.

"I Spent $1 on Rat-Snap and Saved the Price of a Hog."

James McGuire, famous Hog Raiser of New Jersey, says, "I advise every farmer troubled with rats to use RAT-SNAP. Tried everything to get rid of rats. Spent $1.25 on RAT-SNAP. Figured the rats it killed saved the price of a hog." RAT-SNAP comes in cake form. No mixing with other food. Cats or dogs won't touch it. Three sizes, 35c, 65c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by Conrad Payne & Co., Cloverport, and B. F. Beard & Co., Hardinsburg.—Advertisement.

WINTER DAYS

Jack Frost's coming, or maybe he is here, Dull days coming, windy, chill, and drear, Fair days coming, cheery, cold, and bright, Brilliant with the sunshine as the starshine makes the night, Snow-storms coming, whirling when the morning breaks! Ice-storms coming, jewels on the trees, Glassy, icy sidewalks where the rain-drops freeze, Cold days coming, days for warm attire, Long delightful evenings before an open fire, Wet days coming, with driving hail and rain, Rattling—swishing—on the window pane! Dry days coming, vigor in the air, Everybody lively, movement everywhere, Short days coming, ending up the year.—Yes!

Winter days are coming, Winter's nearly here —Somerville Journal

AT THE CLOSE OF THE DAY

How happy we feel at the close of the day, When we without blushing can truthfully say, Though the task was severe and the hours were long, To no one on earth have we done any wrong, How rich is the blessing that falls on our head When our labors are o'er and good-nights are said; If no sad reminder hestirs in our mind The thought of a word that was mean or unkind, The way to win out is to follow this rule, No matter how pestered to try to keep cool, Though some may annoy us by snarls or a pout, Still let our fund of calm-patience run out, Our patience needs practice, like most other things, But when once acquired it tenaciously clings; 'Twill be a great comfort in trouble and strife And help one pass over rough places in life, It is a bit hard to be faultless and true, When the powers of ill are arrayed against you But if all our strength to one purpose we bend What we most desire we shall win in the end, So easy to tell some one else what to do, So, if you will tell me, then I will tell you, And though in the past we some errors have made, To make less henceforth this may each of us aid, —Thomas F. Porter.

THE LITTLE INDIAN CANOE.

By Florence Fairman Stookley.

"Oh, Uncle Henry," cried a small boy, "where did you get that little boat? Isn't it a fine one?"

"That came from up North Donald," said Uncle Henry. "It's an Indian canoe and I saw the Indian who made it."

"Oh, Uncle Henry, did you really?"

"Yes indeed," replied his uncle, "and it took a good deal of skill to make it. Every Indian boy is ambitious to learn how to make a good canoe. How would you like to own this one, Donald?"

"Own it? I own that canoe?" gasped Donald, pleased and surprised at so generous an offer.

"Certainly. That very canoe. Why not?"

"Oh, oh, Uncle—"

"If you will cut the grass in my yard, and do it well, I'll pay you by giving you the canoe."

"Where's your lawn-mower?" asked Donald eagerly, "I'll begin this minute."

"It's in the tool house," answered his uncle.

Donald ran off to the tool house and soon returned with the lawn-mower. For over an hour he pushed it up and down the yard; then he ran into the house and called "Uncle Henry, please bring me the canoe."

"Oh are you?" asked his uncle in surprise, "there's a patch over there by the garden—and another by the kitchen walk that don't look as though they had been touched since last week. Of course if you'd rather not finish your job, I'll pay you fifteen cents for what you've done. But that little canoe—you see it's made of real birch-bark and by a genuine Indian—and well made, too—sewed and bound firmly and neatly. It wouldn't be right for me to give you that unless you had done the whole job, Donald and done it well. I'm sorry, but I can't do it."

Back to the yard went Donald. I'll try it again," he said.

For half an hour longer he cut and trimmed, till the lawn was as smooth as a green rug.

Then he brought, Uncle Henry out to inspect the job. "All right, my boy," said Uncle Henry. "Here's your canoe."

HOW ABOUT "EATS?"

Farming has been the chief topic discussed by 35 Governors assembled in Harrisburg. Every executive of a State in which agriculture is important seems to be thoroughly alarmed over the awful plight in which the American farmer finds himself today. What has been deflation in many lines of business has become a toboggan slide when it reached foodstuff. The farmer has seen his bushel of corn sold and resold by speculators, and now the price is so low that the corn in his barn is not worth hauling to market. He might buy young stock and fatten them during the winter, but he has not the price and no bank

YOU LOVE LIFE MORE

Takes on a Different Color When Your Blood Is Rich and Free From Poison.

TRY TAKING PEPTO-MANGAN.

If You Feel Listless and Depressed, Your Blood Is Clogged and Sluggish.

Without knowing why, you find yourself feeling unhappy. You go around day after day half asleep. Interest in what is going on around you lags and life becomes dull. The beauty of radiant sunshine, lovely flowers and the entrancing miracles of life you miss entirely. Living, eating, sleeping, become more or less of a bore.

That is what clogged, sluggish blood does to you. It poisons your thoughts. You are only half alive.

You need a good blood-enriching tonic. Take Pepto-Mangan for a few weeks and notice the big improvement. Pepto-Mangan is an agreeable tonic and is heartily endorsed by physicians.

Your druggist has Pepto-Mangan in both liquid and tablet form. Buy whichever you prefer; one has exactly the same effect as the other. Make sure you get genuine Pepto-Mangan. Ask for "Gude's" and look for the full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," on the package. Advertisement.

will see him through.

The Governors are so storied up that they are likely to do an unprecedented thing—send a committee of their conference to the coming session of Congress to plead for the farmer and suggest that the Federal Treasury help him out.

The inflated values in which we have all been living have extended to agricultural real estate. Millions of acres have changed hands at very high prices. Mortgages and loans have been arranged on the supposition that the farms were worth their purchase price—and now the bottom has dropped out of the food market.

The 1920 census shows that more than one-half of America's population has moved to town. (The majority has always been on the land until now.) The food question is more acute than it has ever been and the prospect is that thousands of farmers will be sold out and ruined.

The protest of the man in the fields is only just beginning. It will have its echo in cities living on shorter rations. America must eat before it does anything else, and if we plan to eat we must find some way of making farming worth while.—Boston Globe.

BURGLARS ARE ORIGINAL

Use Unique Method of Breaking Into Store.

What was perhaps the most unique way of breaking and entering a place of business in the record of the Atlanta police headquarters was reported by the manager of Tesler's Style Shop.

Burglars removed a panel two feet square from the rear wall of the store by using a brace and bit. Holes were bored in four lines, making a square, and then the panel was pushed out. The burglars entered the store and carried away clothing valued at $4,000. Men's and ladies' suits, silk stockings and silk socks and large quantities of underwear were stolen.

"There has to be a breaking and entering to constitute a burglary," said one of the police officers, "but this is a case of boring and entering."

World War Made Many Old Maids.

Because 35,000,000 men lost their lives in Europe and Asia during the World War 15,000,000 European women will die old maids. These figures are given by Doctor Schwelshelmer of Germany.

Paper Umbrella Out Soon.

An unusual novelty will be placed on the market soon in the form of a paper umbrella. The New York Sun states. It is said that this newfangled rain shelter will be a very satisfactory substitute for the traditional alpaca or silk. It will retail for 50 cents, thereby cutting the cost of umbrellas down to a sum that should be considered distinctly nominal these days of the $8 and $10 variety.

The color of the new umbrella will be black and the paper of a composition absolutely waterproof and crackless. It will have a steel frame, wooden knob handle and a ring at the lower end of the "stick." Those in charge of the manufacture of the novelty say it will be durable and that it will roll as small as a silk one.

Nothing on Mar.

An aristocratic lady gave a dinner party during the walters' strike in New York. A young girl of the type known as buxom waited on the table. She seemed quiet and unobtrusive, and was efficient. After the dinner was over, the hostess said she would sign the check. When she had written her name she turned to the waitress and said: "Perhaps I should tell you that I am Mrs. Blank, so there will be no mistake. My handwriting is rather illegible."

The waitress picked up the check, glanced at the signature, and said: "Well, dearie, you ain't got nothing on Mar."

FISHES FOR BIRDS WITH ROD AND LINE

Boston Curator Thus Catches Rare Specimens for Aviary.

The way to catch birds, according to the beliefs and practices of George Morse, curator of the Franklin Park zoo, Boston, is to fish for them. A bamboo fish pole with a small fish line noose and snow shoes completes the curator's outfit for "bird fishing."

Nor is this a fish story. A reporter saw him catch three birds in this manner. Since February 4, when he sighted his first two birds and caught them, he has "landed" a full dozen of rare little feathered songsters from the far north.

This included four pine grosbeaks, two evening grosbeaks, which are birds especially rare in this section; five purple finches and one red top. It is Mr. Morse's opinion that the deep snows farther north have completely covered all possible food and that the low fruited bushes of the park have attracted the birds.

Curator Morse spends all his spare time tramping over the snowy miles of park expanse in search of these rare birds. He knows that the first thaw will send them north again and he is eager to capture as many as possible to put on exhibit in the aviary with the other costly and rare specimens.

Curator Morse always tries to work up upon the bird from the rear. He pushes his pole into such a position that the noose is just over the bird's head. Then he drops it gently. There is a flutter of wings, a surprised protest and the little creature is fairly caught.

Then the curator hauls in gently and the bird is soon in captivity.

RACE SOON TO BE EXTINCT

Is in Wake of Civilization Have Spelt Doom to the Polynesians of South Sea.

What modern civilization is bringing death and extermination to the splendid race known as the Polynesian, is the claim of all travelers who have spent time on the beautiful southern Pacific Islands. Charles Bernard Nordhoff, in the Atlantic Monthly, in sorrowing over this says:

"To say that Christianity was their undoing would be absurd; they died and are dying under the encroachments of the European civilization of which Christianity was the forerunner. Everywhere in the South seas the story has been the same, whether told by Stevenson, or Melville, or Louis Recke. We brought them disease; we brought them cotton clothing (almost as great a curse); we suppressed the sports and merriment and petty wars which enabled the old Islanders to maintain their interest in life. And lastly, we brought them an alien code of morals, which succeeded chiefly in making hypocrites of the men whose souls it was designed to save. Today there is nothing to be said, nothing to be done—the Polynesian race will soon be only a memory."

New Method of Identification.

Not only are the finger prints of every human being different but the position of the bones of the fingers, and also the shape of the nails are different. Doctor Beclere, a well-known student of radiography, utilizes this fact in a new method for identifying criminals. The method consists in making an X-ray photograph of the hand, showing the bones and the fingernails. Ordinarily such a photograph would not show the flesh, but in order that the record may be complete the fingers are soaked in an opaque salt, by means of which all the lines and marks are clearly shown. Doctor Beclere considers that the possibility afforded by his discovery of keeping a record of nails as well as of finger prints should prove of the greatest use in identifying criminals.

Vast Wealth in Liberia.

The Sun and New York Herald a few weeks ago was probably the first newspaper in our country to announce that Liberia, in West Africa, had just come into view as very rich in natural resources, both agricultural and mineral. It is nearly as large as the state of New York, fronts on the Atlantic for about 300 miles and its coast belt is only about twenty miles wide. North of the coast belt the whole country is a vast forest, through which Sir Alfred Sharpe of England has recently penetrated. He has informed the Royal Geographical society of the enormous population of this, till now, unknown forest land and of the unexpected resources, including gold and other minerals, that await development there.

Radio Control for Airplanes.

There can be doubt that if the war had lasted a few months longer we would have witnessed the leading armies employing great fleets of airplanes controlled by radio means. The United States army had progressed pretty far along this line when the armistice was declared. The same can be said for Germany. Now we learn that the French have demonstrated that five or six small and inexpensive bombing planes, without pilot, can be successfully guided by a "shepherd" in a larger plane through the means of Hertzian waves.—Scientific American.

LE ROY, N. Y.

HAS AN IDEA SON WAS RIGHT

Circumstances Brought Wife of United States Senator to Acquiesce in Youth's Philosophy.

Senator Miles Polindexter, from the state of Washington, used to live on a ranch.

One hot day he was in the garden weeding onions, when Mrs. Polindexter came across her eleven-year-old son Gale comfortably ensconced on the front porch enjoying the cool shade and a good book.

"Why, Gale!" she cried, "aren't you ashamed of yourself to sit here and read while your poor father is out there working in all that heat? Go and help him this minute!"

"Aw, mother," protested Gale. "I can't be bothered with weeding onions. Besides, I've got an engagement to go swimming at 11 o'clock."

About an hour later Mrs. Polindexter heard a low whistle from the onion patch, and before she could take in its significance father and son had disappeared down the hill in the direction of the swimming hole.

In telling the story Mrs. Polindexter said: "I don't know but what Gale's philosophy was the best. Today as a young naval officer he is sailing the high seas; while his father—well, his father is still weeding onions!"

Valuable Counterfeit.

A strange counterfeit turned up at a Washington bank recently—queer because it was a bogus $5 gold coin and worth about eight times as much as the genuine because it is made of platinum.

The spurious coin was made about fifty years ago and bears the date of 1850. Mysteriously the secret service contain a record of the species and the case is marked "closed." The coins were made in Maine and came to the notice of the Treasury department when the seclusion of a wealthy family took a quantity of them from a safety deposit box containing heirlooms and put them in circulation. All known specimens were confiscated by the secret service and it was not known until now that others were still in circulation.

Women and Cats.

Women are like cats. If you move toward them they run away. But if you sit there and say "Puss, puss, puss," and put a saucer of milk on the floor, in due course they will be moved by curiosity to come and see what there is in the saucer. Then, click! you've got the cat by the back of the neck so that it can't scratch you. When the cat has struggled enough and discovered that it can't get away, and been tickled behind the ear, she'll sit on your lap and purr. And then, ah, then, you no longer need to say, "Puss, puss, puss!" You can say, "You damn cat!" and she'll go on sitting there, purring.—From "Caliban" by W. L. George.

PET BIRDS TAUGHT TO SING BY WHISTLING AIR TANK

Taking advantage of the imitative faculty of song birds, a simple mechanism has now been contrived that actually teaches canaries and other pet warblers how to increase their singing repertoire, declares an illustrated article in the December Popular Mechanics Magazine. A partly water-filled cylindrical metal tank, in which a slightly smaller inverted tank slides up and down, provides enough air pressure for blowing a series of whistles of different tone.

GRODNO BATTLE IS DESCRIBED BY AN EYE WITNESS

Capture by Poles Was Serious Blow to Soviet Army.

POLES START NONE TOO EARLY

Their Advance Was Merely a Fore-stallment of the Bolshevik Offensive—Enormous Forces Were Concentrated on the Polish Front—Polish Artillery Firing Was Excellent, but Bolshevik Firing Was Weak—Boy Scouts Take Prominent Part in Fighting.

The battle of Grodno, in which the Poles won a decisive victory over the forces of Soviet Russia, is described by an eye witness in the London Times. Writing from Warsaw, this correspondent says:

"The loss of Grodno was a serious blow to the Soviet government. The Bolsheviks had concentrated enormous forces on the northwest Polish front, those defending Grodno consisting of twenty per cent of Communists. There were eleven divisions of infantry, seven divisions of reserves, plus two cavalry divisions, and a new lately formed fifth army. The Polish advance was merely a forestallment of the Bolshevik offensive. Events have shown that it was started none too early. Delay might have been fatal.

"Grodno lies in the cup of a ring of hills which form a perfect natural defense. The town itself is built on the steep banks of the Niemen, and its numerous white towers, clustering in the midst of the thick forests which hide the slopes of the river, present a picturesque scene from the neighboring heights.

Watches Bombardment.

"On the eve of its capture I lay in the front line trenches of the attacking forces and watched the bombardment of the outer fortifications. They fell during the night, and the Polish artillery moved up to the heights encircling the city. The Polish firing was excellent. The Bolshevik reply was weak, for although the aim was not had the percentage of 'duds' was high. "On September 25 the Polish shells could be seen hursting right in the Bolshevik trenches on the outskirts of the town. Down below Polish bridging parties were forcing a crossing over the Niemen in face of machine-gun fire from the woods opposite. The Polish soldier will have none of Bolshevism, but he is willing to give the professed Communist his due as a fighter. Picked Communist regiments were defending these woods and defended them well.

"As soon as dusk fell the Bolshevik forces deserted the town. At midnight of September 25 the first Polish troops entered the outskirts. I followed them in the early morning. The last time I passed through Grodno, in July of this year, it was a bright and flourishing town. When I reentered it after ten weeks of the blessings of 'proletarian culture' it was a city of the dead. The jagged, haunted faces of the inhabitants, the filth, wanton destruction and desolation told their own tale. The walls were beplastered with endless propaganda posters and the worn-out revolutionary watchwords of which Russia is sick unto death.

All Papers Destroyed.

"The first place I visited was the late premises of the Extraordinary commission. Its headquarters were in a small lodging in the center of the town. The tables, chairs and curtains had all been carted away. Of the furniture there remained nothing but two smashed cupboards whose empty drawers were lying about the floor. All papers had been carefully burnt and the ashes lay in heaps about the stoves.

"Among the scraps on the floor which I succeeded in piecing together the only document of interest was an order signed by one Nikolaitch that the large number of deserters from the Red army were to be shot mercilessly. From these rooms the order went forth to shoot all suspected of favoring the White guards. Poles, Russians and bourgeois Jews alike were shot on his charge. Among the bourgeois Poles were an engine driver and stoker who refused to drive a train load of ammunition against the retreating Poles. In some cases inquiries were held to try the 'counter-revolutionists'. Some of the accused were acquitted, the inhabitants explained, but as they had already been shot, it was rather too late.

"The work of spreading the proletarian gospel dictated by Moscow was carried out by the 'Karl Marx club,' the headquarters of what is known in Soviet Russia as the 'Cultural and Enlightenment Committee.' Notices of concerts and meetings still remain on the walls of the rooms.

Communist Culture.

"I asked neighboring dwellers if they could tell me in what the Communist culture and enlightenment consisted. They said they did not know unless it was the revels and orgies which had frequently taken place in the 'Karl Marx club,' lasting into late hours of the night. I visited several of the hotels and premises of Soviet institutions. Everywhere the same scene of defilement and wanton wreckage met the eye.

"I was greatly struck by the presence among the Polish troops which took Grodno of a considerable number of Boy Scouts. These scouts took a prominent part in the actual fighting. The company I met numbered seventy scouts, aged from fifteen to nineteen. It had originally numbered 140, but had already lost half its members in killed and wounded. They were accompanied by Girl Scouts, who performed sanitary and Red Cross work.

"The rank and file of the Red army form a marked contrast to the Communist regiments which defended Grodno. Polish aeroplanes fly over the Bolshevik lines and distribute large quantities of 'prisoners' passes,' telling the Red army men that if they come over with these slips of paper they will be well received and well fed. These 'prisoners' passes' have been a great success.

"I have spoken to many of the Red prisoners and their story is always the same. They are mobilized at the point of the bayonet. If they hide in their home woods their wives and families are arrested. They are sent down to the front in locked box cars.

"One group of twenty men from the district of Smolensky, belonging to the fifth division, whom I met on the road a few hours after their capture, said their journey to the front took four days, during which time they were given no food or drink, nor were they let out of the train.

"In the end they ate the trampled scraps and leavings of fish heads, bones, etc., which they had thrown on the floor the first day. At the front their rations were four vobla (a most unpalatable fish) for two days. Everything else they were told to seize from the peasants.

"They were given rifles only just before the attack, when a machine gun manned by Communists was placed behind them, and they were warned that if they did not advance they would be mown down.

"The Communists had told them if they were taken prisoners the Poles would heat, starve and torture them. None the less, they seized the first opportunity to hide in the woods during the attack and desert, because (to use their own words) 'nothing could be worse than their Communists.'

"They were delighted at their reception by the Poles, and expressed intense satisfaction at having been given two solid meals already that day.

"Among the various papers I picked up in Grodno was one headed 'Down With the Retreat!' 'Poland Must Be Smashed to Atoms' runs this proclamation. 'The tide has already turned. Not only are we no longer on the defensive, but we are preparing our great blow and have even begun our offensive. . . . We are mobilizing all our Communists and shall shortly be victorious on all fronts.' Of late I have many times recalled to mind the parting words of Comrade Axelrod to me at Kovno. 'Give my regards to Pilsudski,' he said sarcastically, 'and tell him we shall meet him very soon—in Warsaw.'

NEEDS NEW TOWN NAME

Place Where John Brown Was Tried and Executed Offers Prize.

The town council of Charles Town, historic seat of Jefferson county, West Virginia, famed as the place where John Brown, insurrectionist, was tried, condemned and hanged, has offered $50 as a prize to the person who will submit the most acceptable new name for the town. The similarity of Charles Town and Charleston has resulted in all sorts of confusion, and merchants, manufacturers, farmers and people generally of Charles Town have come to the conclusion that the name should be changed.

The general assembly some years ago authorized the name to be divided into two words "Charles Town," but railroad, postal and telegraph officials and clerks continued to make mistakes. Corpses intended for internment at Charles Town, have been frequently shipped to Charleston, the state capital. A large manufacturing concern has refused to locate in Charles Town because of the confusion.

SHE'S YOUNG AGAIN

Actress rejuvenated by Thyroid Gland Treatment.

"I feel I could jump over the house," said Connie Edds recently. She was for many years the principal actress at the Gaiety theater in London, afterward going to America. Everybody has been struck with her youthful vigor despite her fifty years. The secret of this rejuvenation is that she for four months has been taking a thyroid gland treatment.

She has taken altogether twelve injections of the extract. She is overjoyed at the result, although she confesses to a latent fear that she may slowly turn into an animal of the monkey type, which would have its compensations, she admits, since she ought then to have no difficulty in amusing her audience. Speaking seriously she says she does not know what fatigue is. She feels ready to dance and sing all the time. She had been suffering with her heart, which is all right now despite the fact that she smokes fifty cigarettes daily.

Asked Parking Space for Baby Buggy. Feeling that a parking space for baby buggies was needed in Lima, O., William Sutton, an attorney, has asked the city council to pass an ordinance providing such a place.

COATS FOR SPRING

Whoever is looking for a coat for spring will give this new arrival more than one glance and the second glance is apt to be a lingering if not a longing one. For there are several innovations, to be considered in this dignified garment. It hangs in almost straight lines, for one thing, and for another the sleeves are smaller and fit more closely than is usual. The collar is entirely new with not a trace of the popular muffer style in it and finally, tucks and plaits in the material serve for decoration. The cuffs and pockets are both made of the plaited fabric. As a rule coats for spring are about three-quarter length and modeled in simple designs. They depend upon smart lines and good looking materials, rather than on decorations, for distinction, and this makes them appropriate for street or travel. Yokes, plaits and large pockets, cozy fabrics and a flavor of sports wear, in style are winning approval.

Origin of Surnames.

No one can say with any certainty when the practice of taking a surname became general. The Greeks, Assyrians, Egyptians and other ancient peoples had no surnames; the later Romans had each one real personal name, to which they sometimes added a clan name or nomen, a family name or cognomen and a nickname or agnomen. The personal or Christian name was the only name recognized by early English law, surnames being words of description used to identify persons of the same name from each other. The Normans had introduced into England the habit of using surnames, but this was confined to the upper classes. By degrees even the common people began to be distinguished by names referring to personal characteristics, as Armstrong, rank or profession as Smith, father's name as Jackson, etc.

Economy.

Without economy none can be rich, and with it few will be poor.—Doctor Johnson.

VAGUE ABOUT "RED" LEADERS

But Young Bolshevik Soldier Had Heard of Trotsky, and Inclined to Lenin.

I have just had a talk with a Bolshevik soldier, captured by the Poles when he was participating in a bold scouting enterprise. He is a young man twenty-one years old, coming from one of the interior departments of Russia. He is illiterate and a confirmed Bolshevik.

Discipline, he said, was very good in the Bolshevik army; still they did not obey orders because they were orders, but "as a matter of conscience." The military form of address had been abolished and even the officers were spoken to as comrades. Naturally the soldiers stand at attention before their officers; but that was because every soldier in the army follows the bidding of his conscience and "it would be foolish" not to stand at attention before one's commander.

He had never seen a general or any of the higher officers, but he knew the commander in chief was called Trot-ky, and that there was another head man. He pondered a moment trying to recall who the second one was, and then suddenly remembered, "Lejine." He knew nothing more about him, and did not know the names of any other commanders.

He kept saying "Everyone of us is a Bolshevik," and seemed to be impressed with the great power and authority of the Bolsheviks. When asked who Trotsky was he replied, "A very popular Jew." "The Jews are much liked in the army. They never allow themselves to be captured. They hate the Poles so, and the Poles hate them so—and invariably murder them—that they prefer suicide to being made prisoners."—From the Vossische Zeitung (Berlin).

Peary's Flag Floats Away From Pole.

Intact in the ice, the American flag which Commodore Peary planted at the North pole has been found 400 miles away from its original geographical point, by Capt. Godfred Hansen, leader of the Amundsen auxiliary expedition. Ice drift carried the flag from the pole.
